Season of Joy Vaccinates Hope

The First Christmas in Nazareth changed the history of mankind with the good news of Peace and Joy to all men of Good will....while the people languished under tyranny and waited for the coming of the Messiah..

For us all, this is First Christmas too - a Covid Christmas - even as the world anxiously waits for deliverance from the claws of Covid 19 that gnaws at every human organ and sinew it can contact, injecting the venom of fear and mortality in every person on this planet.

While the First Christmas had the shepherds and the sheep to be the privileged lot to experience and worship the Messiah, followed by the magi subsequently, this first covid Christmas has millions lined up on the highway of hope, lanes of hospitals and homes and bylanes of one's own inner self, for that life saving hope of Vaccine to deliver them from fear and death and combat the deadly Covid19, even as millions across the globe ceaselessly pray to the Divine for physical liberation from this deadly disease and spiritual liberation from fear to experience the joy of living within oneself and around with near and dear ones surrounding them and their neighbourhood.

While the first Christmas in Nazareth had Angels to announce the good news of redemption by the King whose kingdom was not of this world, this first Covid Christmas has both Angels of medicare announcing the good news of hope for liberation from this physical menace of Covid 19 and Angels of soul who continue to remind us all that we are pilgrims on this earth and that our earthly journey has a further destination beyond the realm of our physical lives, which need a different perspective to seek the Kingdom of God within self and experience the Redeemer and Saviour whose being is beyond human comprehension and understanding.

Random Remembrances-Br Michael By Jo Pathyil...

0.1 The Mentor Lands

(Jo Continues his Journey thru the Spectrum of Br Michael...)

Joe Pathyil Recalls ...

Bro. Michael was the principal of Assumption College, Bangkok for several years. However in 1941 he came to India, and was appointed the Novice Master of the newly established Novitiate. He was also responsible for the juniorate where youngsters completed their High School certification, before joining the novitiate. In 1947, when I arrived in Coonoor, I was accompanied by my father as he wanted to see the facilities for himself. At the gates of the St. Antony's, surrounded by novices and postulants, stood a tall white missionary. With greying hair, beard flowing to his wide chest, Bro. Michael looked every bit as my cousin had described him. Thatha, Tamil for grandfather, suited him. Bro. Michael and my father became good friends. In fact in 1948, when Bro. Michael went to visit Travancore, he spent a couple of days in our house in Kaipuzha and went to Athirampuzha for the church festival and the fireworks that was the grand finale of the week of festivities. .

0.2 Thatha The Versatile

Bro. Michael was a versatile person. In addition to the Rules of the Society, he also taught the novices The Bible, Psychology, music, church history, meditation, philosophy, and other varied subjects, and compiled booklets. He found time to accompany youngsters on their weekly three-hour walks, and occasional day-long picnics. He taught singing, including to read musical notes. Latin church liturgical songs, English hymns, French songs, were taught by Bro. Michael. In preparations for Christmas, Holy Week, feasts of saints etc.etc., Bro. Michael would spend many hours teaching the novices and juniors. The very preparation of these events instilled impetus and enthusiasm in the young men. He insisted that the postulants and novices learn French. There were daily classes in rudimentary French. The novices had to read lives of saints in the refectory in French. The constant effort to teach pronunciation of certain French sounds often brought giggles and laughter. On special occasions, there were skits and singing in French. Popular songs in France such as Alouette, Chanson de montagnards, Roland etc. were known to us even before we studied French. In 1950 when Bro. Anastase, the then Superior General visited Coonoor, we sang the song composed by the General himself as he accompanied us on the organ in the chapel. "Montfort o pere, ton peuple espere en ton pouvoir, en ta bonte".

0.3 The Spectrum Unfolds

Bro. Michael was the first to rise and last one to retire for the night. He met each one every few days in private to direct them in their personal lives. He was a good listener, compassionate, encouraging, comforting, advising, and always positive. He knew what was trivial, and what really mattered. A man of positive thoughts and cheerful disposition, he would not be influenced by rumors and gossips. He chose the names for the novices, and we would pick the lottery. The highlight of the vestition ceremony was the eagerly anticipated new name.

Thatha ...

0.4 The Baton Changes Hands

Thatha hardly ever took a holiday. But in 1951 he was sent to Thailand for a few months as the official delegate of the central administration in order to preside over the golden jubilee of the arrival of the brothers in that country. He was accorded cordial receptions everywhere he went. After a few months of break, he returned to resume his duties in Coonoor. Ours was the last batch to complete our novitiate in Coonoor in 1952. In May 1952 the novitiate was shifted to Eachinkadu, Yercaud. Though Bro. Michael was reluctant about this shift initially, he enthusiastically cooperated to make the new facilities suitable. When Bro. Paul, the novice from Singapore, who was a professional photographer and artist, undertook to design a pedestal for the statue of Our Lady of Fatima, Thatha was immensely pleased. The new premises with extensive land and several buildings were put to maximum use. Young men recruited by the Brothers in Singapore and Thailand, joined the ones from India and were trained under Bro. Michael. In spite of occasional tensions, Bro. Michael was able to guide them to become responsible members of the society. He was given several assistants to help with the curriculum of the novitiate. But as years rolled on, it was apparent that Thatha could not cope with his responsibility. Therefore, the superiors gently eased him out of his arduous task as Novice Master, though reluctantly. Bro. Michael did not live long after his retirement. He died peacefully in 1962 (?). His was a rich life of dedication, and pioneering work both in Thailand and, especially, in India. The name of Bro. Michael must be inscribed in golden letters when writing the history of The Brothers of St. Gabriel in India.

The Art of Listening ... BO Sebastian

BO Sebastina writes....

Following is a write from the heart of an educator of excellence propelled by his inquisitive mind. Listen to him as his words speaks to us..

My Dear Friends!

Nobody learned anything by hearing themselves speak.

Most of the successful people I have known are the ones who do more listening than talking - Bernard Baruch.

Most people do not listen with the intent to understand; they listen with the intent to reply - Stephen R Covey.

To whom will you open your mind freely without any reticence / inhibition? Why? Doesn't every good conversation begin with good listening?.

All of you please stop talking and listen. Be attentive to what I say. Listen to what I am going to tell you..

We teachers repeatedly say sentences like these to make the students listen. The paradox is We want them to listen but none of us teach how to listen.

In our educational system, we spend years teaching and training the three "R"s (Reading, Writing, Arithmetic). We also guide them in other curricular and co curricular activities. But we have rarely given a class or training on developing listening skill. Man's inability to comprehend fast, to develop a photographic memory and to communicate well is the result of his failure to listen effectively. Like every conversation, every learning begins with the art of listening.

I only wish, I could find an institution that teaches people how to listen. After all, a good manager needs to listen at least as much as he needs to talk. Too many people fail to realize that real communication goes in both directions- Lee Iacocca.

Listening is the most neglected art, courtesy and necessity today says Fr. E. H. McGrath S.J. an acclaimed expert and trainer /consultant in human development.

The process of learning is LSRW (Listening, Speaking, Reading and Writing). Learning begins with listening. Shouldn't we give priority in helping our students to attain mastery over this art?.

It is easy to listen to an outstanding teacher who keeps his students spellbound by his command over the language, communication skill, method of teaching. But to listen to all teachers in all the classes is really challenging and strenuous for most of the students.

Hearing is not listening. I heard someone does not make any sense unless it is clear who said it and what has been said.

What I hear, I forget, What I see I remember, What I do I know/ understand said Confucius. To listen effectively, one should have concentration or self-control of the mind.

All eyes and ears remind us to be active listeners. When Lok Manya Tilak was questioned by his teacher, for not taking down the notes, his reply was, Sir, I remember verbatim everything you have dictated. Why should I take down notes?. The teacher was awestruck and praised him when he answered word by word the next day.

Should we be good listeners? The ear of the leader must ring with the voices of the people said Woodrow Wilson. The ears of the Teachers, Principals should ring with the voices of the students, and parents.

Fleming reminds us the request of a child If you touch me soft and gentle, if you look at me and smile at me, if you listen to me and then talk to me, I will grow, really grow. All of us need to listen at least as much as we need to talk. Only a good listener can be a great leader, speaker, an exceptional teacher or an outstanding principal.

Listening is courtesy: When friends, parents, teachers or students, employer or the employee speak it is politeness to listen.

Listening is a necessity: It is applicable to all whatever may be our position, profession because no one talks, teaches without a purpose. For a student especially it is a necessity.

To whom do we confide our problems and worries? The best listener is your best student, trusted friend, guide or counsellor.

The best listener is an embodiment of all qualities . He/She could be your grandparents, parents, uncles or aunts, husbands or wives for that matter. No wonder the outstanding Doctors, Psychiatrists, Counselors, Advisors thrive in their profession since they are excellent listeners. Shouldn't we be good listeners and make the learning process easier for students by giving constant listening practice and training? I conclude - BO Sebastian (MGAs are requested share their experiences - the pleasant and the unpleasant for in sharing, the joy is doubled while the sorrow is shared).

Reny Raju with Brother and Parents ...

Reny Raju John bags Gold Medal Reny Raju, daughter of Mrs and Mr Raju John, is the Gold Medal winner for 2019-20 in M. Sc Speech therapy from All India Institute Universities in Tamilnadu. It is befitting to appreciate him for his successful achievement as top 1 percent scientists in the world.

A recent research article entitled 'Updated Science-wide Author Databases of Standardized Citation Indicators' by professors John P.A. Ioannidis, Kevin W. Boyack and Jeroen Baas belonging to Stanford University, USA, published in a reputed journal PLOS BIOLOGY 18(10): e3000918; 16 Oct. 2020 has analysed the contributions of more than one lakh scientists for their impact making research publications in the field of Biology.

They analysed 1,13,961 scientists from all over the world. Fr Ignacimuthu has been ranked 872 in the world. The contributions from 1985 to 2019 are evaluated. Fr. Dr. Ignacimuthu, has been ranked below 1,000 for the last 20 years. Fr. Ignaci is ranked 10th among Indian scientists of Biology.

The achievements of Fr Ignacimuthu reminds one to recall to mind Pierre Teilhard de Chardin SJ (1 May 1881 – 10 April 1955) who was a French idealist philosopher and Jesuit Catholic priest who trained as a paleontologist and geologist and took part in the discovery of the Peking Man.

He conceived the vitalist idea of the Omega Point (a maximum level of complexity and consciousness towards which he believed the universe was evolving), and he developed with Vladimir Vernadsky the concept of noosphere. Teilhard's ideas had a profound influence on the New Age movement.

It is hoped the achievements and examples of Fr Ignacimuthu would inspire others in our Church and Community to actively involve in science and technology towards evolving a true convergence of mind body and soul in search of one's purpose in Life in the true spirit of a pilgrim in search of his destination.

Jesuit Father Savarimuthu Ignacimuthu has been identified as one of the top 1 percent scientists in biology. The director of St Xavier's College in Tamil Nadu's Palayamkottai town earned the honor after scientists in the United States evaluated the Jesuit's research publications.
